

CHAPTEE XXV.

1812.

Changeableness of Bonaparte's plans and opinions — Articles for the	die.
tated by the First Consul—	Moniteur
Chatillon —	Protocol of the Congress of Conversations with Davoust at Hamburg —	Promise of the Viceroyalty of Poland —
Hope and disappointment of the Poles —	Influence of illusion on Bonaparte —
The French in Moscow —	Disasters of the retreat —
Mallet's conspiracy—	Intelli gence of the affair communicated to Napoleon at Smolensko — Circumstances
detailed by Rapp—	Real motives of Napoleon's return to Paris —
Murat, Ney, arid
Eugene —	Power of the Italians to endure cold—
Napoleon's exertions to repair
his losses—	Defection of General York —
Convocation of a Privy Council —	Wai-
resolved on —	Wavering of the Pope—
Useless negotiations with Vienna —	Maria
Louisa appointed Regent.....	Pages 263-
274

CHAPTER

XXVI. 1813.

Riots in Hamburg and Ltibeck—	Attempted suicide of M. Konning — Evacuation of
Hamburg—	Dissatisfaction at the conduct of General St. Cyr —
The Cabinets of
Vienna and the Tuileries —	First appearance of the Cossacks —
Colonel Tetten-
born invited to occupy Hamburg—	Cordial reception of the Russians—	Depreda
tions—	Levies of troops —
Testimonials of gratitude to Tettenbom
—Napoleon's
new army —	Death of General Mo rand — Remarks of Nupoleon on Vandarnme —
Bonaparte and Gustavus Adolphus —	Junction of the corps of Davoust and
Vandainme —	Re-occupation* of Hamburg by the French —
General Hogendorff
appointed Governor of Hamburg —	Exactions and vexatious contributions levied
upon Hamburg and Lubeck —	Hostages.....
275-
287

CHAPTEE XXVII

1813.

Napoleon's second visit to Dresden—	Battle of Bautzen —
The Congress at Prague —	Napoleon ill advised—
Battle of Vittoria —
General Moreau—	Rupture of the conferences at Prague —
Defection of Jomini —	Battles of Dresden and Leipsic —
Account of the death of Duroc—	An interrupted conversation resumed a year after—	Particulars respecting Poniatowski —
His extraordinary courage and death—	His monument at Leipsic and tomb in the cathedral of Warsaw, 288-299

CHAPTEE XXVIII. .... ^

1813. &lt;

Amount of the Allied forces against Napoleon —	Their advance
towards the Rhine—
Levy of 280,000 men —	Dreadful situation of the French at
Mayence —	Declara
tion of the Allies at Frankfort—	Diplomatic correspondence—
The Due dc Bassano succeeded by the Duke of Vicenza —	The conditions of the Allies vaguely
accepted—	Caulaincourt sent to the headquarters of the Allies
—	Manifesto of the Allied powers^to the French, people—	Gift of 30,000,000 from the Emperor's
privy purse—	Wish to recall M. de TalleyranBTp- Singular advice relative to Wel
lington —	The FreTlcTrarmy recalfedtr^nTEpain —
The throne resigned by Joseph
—	Absurd accusation against M. Lain^ —
Adjournment of the Legislative Body —
Napoleon's Speech to the Legislative Body —	Remarks of Napoleon reported by

Cambace'r&s.....	300-310
------------------	---------